1 is one witness and we say, well, we have seven
2 defendants, how much time, and we'll engage in that 3 discussion and work that out after we look at these 4 topics that are jointly agreed topics, but yet each 5 defendant will have specific questions relating to their 6 company on those topics. And then after December 3rd
7 when we get the State this list of topics, we expect some 8 going back and forth on the propriety of the topics as 9 well as the number of witnesses and the number of time --
10 the amount of time we need to complete those depositions.
11 But this is the way to start the conversation in such a 12 way that all these distinct topics the defendants can 13 schedule depositions in a way hopefully that we can get, 14 you know, the same witness if they're taking about the 15 same kind of issues, to address them for each company
16 specific. But we're not, you know, waiving the right for 17 seek company specific information, we're just saying we 18 will coordinate together these topics so we can do it in 19 the same time frame. So we've agreed to get this list to 20 the plaintiff's counsel by December 3rd and do the best 21 coordinated list that we can do. As of December 3rd the 22 defendants as a whole are not representing this as the 23 end-all, be-all list for everyone, but these are -- this 24 will be our list as of December 3rd on how we want the 25 topics that we can proceed on in this manner. And the

1 with the plaintiffs about the concerns with consolidating
2 the scheduling of 30(b)(6) notices to the State. And one
3 of the primary concerns of the defendants as a whole are 4 proceeding to have specific depositions for -- we want
5 Cargill specific questions. And to the extent that we've 6 asked issue topics and notices, other defendants also may 7 want to join in and ask questions of their own on those 8 same topics. So we're certainly willing to coordinate, 9 so when we get to topics all of the defendants can in the 10 same day or however many days proceed to ask questions on 11 those topics. However, we want to be clear that, you
12 know, Cargill will ask Cargill specific questions,
13 Peterson will ask Peterson specific questions, George's
14 and so on. And in agreeing to coordinate in this way,
15 our co-defendants also want to join us in the discussion
16 of what are the proper topics that we should go with.
17 And so, we proposed a procedure that I think will work
18 and we remain optimistic that by -- that it will work.
19 And by December 3rd, we'll get together with our 20 co-defendants and we'll put together a list of topics.
21 And these are the topics that we want to proceed with and 22 proceed with depositions and scheduling them in such a 23 manner that if it's alleged runoff which is one of the 24 examples of the Cargill notice, for instance, the State
25 will come back and tell us, you know, well, I think this

96

1 think your suggestion is exactly right. We ought to find
2 a way to coordinate -- what are we talking about 3 specifics as opposed to 30,000 generalities about what 4 might happen.

5 THE COURT: Right. You may during the noon
6 hour want to spend a little time talking about maybe what 7 these defendants could offer in the way of coordination 8 that would help resolve some of the concerns that the 9 plaintiffs have before you hear a ruling by the Court.

10 MR. EHRICH: Happy to do it, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: Well, let's do take a break. Let's 12 try to be back here, well, I guess 1:30. Let's just be 13 back 1:30 and we'll deal with the other three issues.
14 All right. We'll be in recess.

15 (Whereupon, the noon recess was held after 16 which the following record was made.)

17 THE COURT: Thank you very much. It's 66. Me
18 and the highway have a lot in common, we're worn but 19 that's very nice. All right. As a birthday present,
20 have you got something to offer?

21 MS. HILL: Your Honor, Theresa Hill on behalf
22 of the Cargill defendants. I hope we do and I appreciate 23 the half an hour that you gave us to work on your 24 birthday present. Hopefully it will save us some time 25 here. We had discussions both with our co-defendants and

1 THE COURT: Let the record reflect that we have
2 had two counsel in one at the podium. Okay. We'll pin
3 down what's going to happen in a court order, I guess,
4 after we hear from the plaintiffs.

5 MR. NANCE: Thank you, Your Honor, and thank 6 you for encouraging a measure of statesmanship on both
7 sides on this matter. Ms. Hill has essentially recited
8 our agreement. Defendants are going to confer among 9 themselves and come up with the best joint list of 10 30(b)(6) topics that they can and present that to the 11 State by December 3rd. We will confer with them after 12 that regarding the list and any objections or 13 improvements we can suggest on it and we will try to get 14 a coordinated set of 30(b)(6) depositions moving after 15 that. We recognize that the defendants are doing this 16 without prejudice to an individual 30(b)(6) notice by 17 some other defendant and we're doing this without any 18 prejudice to any objection we might have to such an 19 additional 30(b)(6), but that's a bridge we will cross
20 when we get to it. We hope that the Court finds that 21 satisfactory and in the spirit Ms. Hill has suggested, 22 we're willing to hold our motion for protective order in 23 abeyance until this processes gets underway and we see 24 how well it works.

25 THE COURT: All right. What do you think the
